Administration and Student Services Building—1

Originally the president’s residence, the building now houses administrative offices, including: the Office of the University President, the Office of the University Provost, the Office of the University Treasurer, the Office of the University Controller, the Office of the University Strategic Initiatives, and the Office of the University Communications. It also contains the University Bookstore, the University Police Department, and the University Legal Office. The second floor of the building is home to the Student Center, which houses a variety of student services, including: the Office of the Registrar, the Office of the University Registrar, the Office of the University Admissions, the Office of the University Financial Aid, the Office of the University Housing and Residential Life, the Office of the University Dining Services, the Office of the University Health Services, the Office of the University Athletics, and the Office of the University Office of International Affairs. The building also contains the University Library, which is housed in a separate building on the campus. The library contains over 2 million books and access to a variety of online resources, including databases, journals, and electronic books. The library also offers research assistance and instruction to students, faculty, and staff. The University also has a number of other libraries and research centers across the campus, including the McClure Library, the Science Library, the Social Science Library, and the Health Sciences Library. These libraries and centers are open to the public and offer a variety of resources and services, including access to databases, journals, and electronic books, as well as research assistance and instruction. The University also has a number of museums and art galleries, including the University Museum, which contains a collection of over 200,000 works of art, and the University Art Gallery, which contains a collection of contemporary and modern art. The University also has a number of performance venues, including the University Theatre, which is used for a variety of performances, including plays, musicals, and concerts.
