Dennis Wiitanen has been the face of electrical engineering at Michigan Tech for over forty years. He earned his BS and MS degrees here in 1963 and 1967, respectively, and returned to take a position on the faculty in 1970 after completing his PhD degree at the University of Missouri-Rolla.

Prof. Wiitanen is a nationally recognized leader in electric power and energy systems. His most significant impact and his lasting legacy, though, is in undergraduate education.

The Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering is proud of his long association and will forever be a reflection of his extraordinary contributions to the University.
