Greetings again from all of us at Tech. I was somewhat surprised when our Provost recently referred to me as the Senior Dean. It seems like I’ve been here only a short time, but it has been almost ten years. I guess I am the Senior Dean when you consider that during my ten years here, I have seen five Engineering Deans, two Deans of Science and Arts, two Directors of the School of Technology and we are currently recruiting what will be the fifth Dean of the Business School since I first arrived. I think this is an indication that the School of Forestry and Wood Products has been and continues to be a stable part of the University.

We were again glad to see several Forestry alumni at the University Alumni Reunion last summer. Our Alumni Group choice for the second recipient of the Honor Alumnus Award was Dennis Teeguarden. Dr. Teeguarden is still on the faculty at the University of California-Berkeley, where he previously served as Department Head of Forestry. Congratulations, Dennis!

We are looking forward to having an on-site SAF Accreditation review this spring. We are constantly updating our curriculum and we welcome the opportunity for the visiting team to offer advice. Last year, I reported that three faculty members had left us for other pastures. Again, I am sorry to report that we have lost a faculty member. Terry Sharik has left us for the position of Forestry Department Head at Utah State. Our best wishes are with him in his new endeavor. Terry contributed extremely well to the School and the University during his years here.

We do have new additions. These included:

Jiquan Chen, a terrestrial/landscape ecologist, who grew up in the P.R. China, and received his B.S. in plant ecology from Inner Mongolia University in 1983 and his M.S. in forest ecology from the Chinese Academy of Science in 1986. He comes to us from the University of Washington where he received his Ph.D. in ecosystem analysis in 1991. Jiquan has scientific interests and responsibilities in the areas of landscape ecology (especially edges/ecotones), forest microclimatology, quantitative methods for ecology and basic ecology and environmental science. He is married and has one daughter, Sylvia.

John Wang, an engineer, who also grew up in China. He received his Ph.D. in Engineering Mechanics from Virginia Polytechnic and State University in 1990. John’s research interests include the processing and mechanical behavior of wood composites, the durability and environmental effects of wood and polymeric materials and the viscoelasticity of material. His teaching will include wood physics, machining, and the mechanics of composites. John, his wife Holgli, and their son, Charles, live in Houghton.

Nathan Heserman is a wood scientist who comes to us with a Ph.D. from the University of Idaho after receiving both his B.S. and M.S. from the University of West Virginia. Nathan has research interests in wood mechanics, structural composites, computer modeling of material properties and structural behavior, and in the non-destructive evaluation of wood properties. His teaching will be in the area of wood mechanics. Nathan lists hiking, computer programming, music, chess, and pets as his hobbies and says he hopes his spouse, Jill, will take up snow shoveling in addition to her pets, music, knitting, and arts and crafts work.

Kurt Pregitzer, an ecologist who is coming to us from Michigan State University where he has served as a full professor in the Department of Forestry. Kurt has had several research projects in cooperation with MTU faculty members, so he is already considered a part of the team. Kurt is currently serving as chair of the Michigan Society of American Foresters.

Visit when you can. Send us news for our news letter. Thanks for continuing to take and interest in Tech Forestry!

Sincerely,

W.E. Frayer
Dean
DEDICATION

This year's Forester is dedicated to Andrea Longhini. Chances are if you've had to take a trip or eaten at a meeting sponsored by the School of Forestry and Wood Products, Andrea was responsible for making it happen. She also handles many administrative duties for the Dean. An Ontonagon native, Andrea attended Ferris State, where she obtained her B.S. in Office Management. In 1982 Andrea married Guy Longhini and the two have since raised two children, Valery and Kenton. A cat named Star and a new dog named Snickers round off the family. When Andrea is not here in the office, she enjoys many outdoor activities. Her summers are spent golfing and water skiing; in the winter she likes to downhill ski and to snowmobile. So, the next time you see her smiling face, thank Andrea for all the hard work she does for us.

As you can see, I've memorized this utterly useless fact long enough to pass a test question. I now intend to forget it forever. You've taught me nothing except how to cynically manipulate the system. Congratulations.

OTTER RIVER
Every winter the forestry cabin at Otter River gets buried in snow, and every year a few brave the cold to shovel off the roof. This year Jen Dustin, Bob Burnham, Scott Brinkman, Mark Hitzeman, Kat Schnobrich, Eric Trott and Gordy Mouw made the long trek out.

CLUBS AND ACTIVITIES
WILDLIFE CLUB

Mission Statement:

To educate our community and advance the awareness of wildlife issues in all aspects of our society.

Keith Wehner: Club President
The Timber Wolf Alliance (TWA) recognizes the wolf as an apex predator which is essential to the biological diversity of the northern forest. The mission of TWA is to promote and assist in achieving a sustainable population of timber wolves in the Great Lakes region with special emphasis in the Lake Superior basin. TWA programs promote strategies which enhance wolf populations and stable inter-relationships within the natural community.

The Federal Gray Wolf Recovery Plan acknowledges that public education is crucial to a successful wolf recovery. TWA was formed through efforts of concerned individuals in 1987 to address the educational needs of the Wisconsin wolf recovery plan and has recently expanded to include the public education needs of the Michigan wolf recovery plan as it develops.

The Goals of TWA are:

- to create an informed citizenry which understands the natural history and role of the wolf in the natural ecosystems and recognize ways in which personal lifestyles impact biological diversity.

- to support ecosystem management initiatives in the Great Lakes region made by those groups and agencies charged with wolf recovery efforts.

- to act as a clearinghouse for current, science-based information resources dealing with Great Lakes wolf recovery efforts.
This year a special event is taking place. The forestry building will be named after our founder, U. J. "Bert" Noblet. Bert Noblet started the forestry program here at Tech back in 1936, and was department head until 1965. He retired then, but came back in 1967 to help Gene Hesterberg break ground for the existing forestry building. And now, in August of 1994, it will be named after the man who started it all.

The Forester would like to take a moment to recognize Bruce Haataja, a man who has over 29 years invested with Michigan Tech. When Bruce first started working for the IWR (Institute of Wood Research), the forestry building hadn't even been built; everything was done in a temporary Quonset hut behind the chemistry building. Now, Bruce does research on molded strandboard development, which can be used for molded pallets, stackable containers, and even furniture. Perhaps the most rewarding experience for Mr. Haataja was when he was given the opportunity to instruct students in the Wood Science program. Bruce is retiring this year, but isn't going to let retirement slow him down. He's starting up his own company, specializing in... you guessed it.. molded strandboard. The Forester salutes you, Bruce, and wishes you well in your new endeavors.

SAF National

This year’s National SAF Convention was held in Indianapolis, IN. The students attending Fall Camp had the opportunity to participate. The trip required traveling a few miles, and a few obstacles were encountered (flat tire, lower left), but sights such as the State capital and INDY 500 Speedway helped make the trip an enjoyable one.

Chances are, we look familiar. Not just from a stand of pines along the road, but places less obvious. Your alma mater, A PBS special. Or the city symphony.

You see, at Weyerhaeuser, we strive to improve our communities as much as we do the environment that cradles them.

Every year we plant nearly 50 million seedlings, so you'll see more trees now than your grandparents did in 1920. We invest millions so your kids will see cleaner air and water. Not to mention a grazing deer or drifting eagle. And we recycle about one and a half million tons of scrap paper, so all of us will see less waste.

After 100 years, we've come to one conclusion. When you give a little as you go along, you not only create a better future, you have something nice to look back on.

THE LAST HURRAH!

It’s hard to believe the year is over. For some of us, it’s the end of an era of college life. No more trips out to the cabin, no more Conclave, no more late night cram sessions or computer projects to finish. It’s time to pack our bags and say good-bye to Michigan Tech. For the rest of us, it’s time to recover from a year of deadlines and homework by working our rear ends off at a summer job. But wherever you are headed, I hope the Forester did its job in presenting the 1993-1994 school year.

The Forester staff was absolutely fantastic this year. For the first time in the four years that I’ve been on the staff, we got our deadlines in pretty much on time. I’d like to thank all the members who gave up their Thursday nights (and some of their $.25 beer nights!) to come in and work on the Forester. Without their effort and drive, this book would not be in existence. We also had the help of a great woman who always brought us a snack on those Thursday meetings, and was there to encourage us (or give us a helpful shove); our advisor, Mary Jurgensen. Mary, we can’t thank you enough (and I want the recipe for those fudge marshmallow things!)

And with that, I’ll close this up and be on my way. Happy trails to you all, wherever the road my lead you.
