CAREER OVERVIEW

I am a comparative socio-legal scholar and teacher focusing on the intersection of energy and environmental law and policy. I have approximately seventeen years of experience working within American, Russian, Norwegian, and British educational institutions, law firms, and non-governmental organizations, teaching, supervising, and mentoring at the undergraduate and graduate levels. My current research is motivated by the need to transition to more sustainable energy systems. It focuses on international and comparative energy law and policy with a special emphasis on the Russian Federation and the United States, energy security and justice, energy geopolitics, risk governance in the energy sector, and Arctic energy development.

EDUCATION

University of Cambridge, Scott Polar Research Institute (Department of Geography), Churchill College

Ph.D. in Polar Studies/Geography, October 2012 – - October 2016
