

Support a new generation of women at Michigan Tech

Linda J. Horton, CPA Scholarship

Legacy

The Linda J. Horton, CPA Scholarship is an opportunity for women studying in the School of Business and Economics at Michigan Technological University.

The program was founded in 2014 through a partnership with President Glenn Mroz, former dean of the School of Business and Economics Gene Klippel, and through the generosity of alumni Joyce '72 and David Lyth '73. Pioneering Women in Business program continues to grow through the gift of Donald D. Horton III, P.E. '68, who established a scholarship in his wife's memory.

Impact

Recipients of the Linda J. Horton, CPA Scholarship are leaders in and out of the classroom who embrace hard work and embody strong ethics. Students focus on academics, gain confidence and skills in business, and receive support and mentoring from successful SBE alumnae.

Future

Michigan Tech Office of Advancement seeks funding to grow and sustain this scholarship. Partner with us to cultivate the next generation of bright, motivated female business leaders. To create opportunities for women at Michigan Tech, call 906-487-3325 or visit mtu.edu/giving.

Invest in Pioneering

Linda J. Horton '68 mentored many young college students, bookkeepers, and graduate accountants who worked for her firm. By creating the scholarship, her husband, Don, honors her memory and her love for Michigan Tech and the Keweenaw.

Make a gift to recognize someone who made a difference in your life.
