The Solidarity Question: A Conversation Between Black & Indigenous Communities

Stephanie Chrismon & Dr. Sasānēhsaeh

Stephanie Chrismon, Afrofuturist Innovations, LLC, and Sasānēhsaeh Pyawasay, Native American Student Success Coordinator for the University of Wisconsin System, will explore the following question: Considering the unique relationship Indigenous and Black people have to colonization in the United States, why aren’t we in solidarity with one another?

This program/lecture is partially funded/sponsored by the Visiting Professor Program which is funded by a grant to the Office of the Provost from the State of Michigan’s King-Chavez-Parks Initiative.
